

THE COAST WITH THE MOST

STATES OF JALISCO, NAYARIT, SINALOA, GUERRERO.

Hospitality and quality are the two hallmarks of Mexico's Pacific Coast, and both are evident in the region's excellent hotel infrastructure and meetings services, the warmth of its people, and its thousands of miles of shoreline dotted with towns and beaches at the foot of jungle-clad mountains. The waters of the Pacific are temperate, and the diversity of recreational activities tied to the region's natural surroundings is enormous.

STATE OF JALISCO

► Puerto Vallarta

Just over 100 years old, Puerto Vallarta is a favorite beach destination in Mexico for events and meetings. Its reputation continues to rise among event organizers for several reasons: its location by one of the most beautiful bays on the planet, warm climate, ample air connectivity, beachside hotels with high-end infrastructure, and an enviable first-class convention center. Puerto Vallarta's new slogan says it all: "You live it more than once."

■ WHERE TO STAY. Leading the charge in Puerto Vallarta are all-inclusive, high-category hotels — most of them beachfront— as well as small boutique hotels with styles ranging from the most classic and colonial to the most contemporary and novel, the latter located mostly along the cobblestone streets of the city's historic center. The destination specializes in the MICE segment and is home to nearly 30 hotels focused on events, which together make up more than 129,167 ft² (12,000 m²) of ideal meeting space.

Besides boasting a beautiful golf course, the exclusive area of Marina Vallarta is home to some of the best resorts in the region. Such is the case with Casa Velas, an all-inclusive, adults-only 5-star hotel with an elegant convention center with an area of 4,628 ft² (430 m²) that can accommodate up to 450 people. Its team specializes in conferences and events and offers secretarial and translation services, and the hotel has a fully equipped business center. The Marriott Puerto Vallarta Resort & Spa is inside the same Marina Vallarta complex; the hotel has been extensively remodeled over the past two years. It offers 14 flexible event meeting rooms totaling 8,880 ft² (825 m²), of which the Vallarta Ballroom stands out as the largest available space in the venue, able to receive up to 700 guests.

CLIMATE

PACIFIC COAST

The climate in the Mexican Pacific is tropical, warm, and humid with slight variations between the different destinations. Hurricane season officially begins on May 15th and ends on November 30th, with peak activity in September. The rainy season runs from June through October, and summers are hot with temperatures that can surpass 91°F (33°C). In contrast, winters are delightful, with temperatures ranging from 60°F (16°C) to 69°F (21°C).

They also have 12 rooms for private meetings and 20,000 ft² (1,858 m²) of outdoor space.

The Now Amber and Secrets Resorts are within the port's famous hotel zone, just 15 minutes from the airport. The two beachfront, 5-star hotels share several meeting rooms with cutting-edge technology. The rooms can welcome from 60 to 280 people each; its largest hall exceeds 6,835 ft² (635 m²) with capacity for 870 people in theater format and 450 in banquet format, as well as a terrace for small groups that require more privacy and a variety of beach areas for events.

■ WHERE TO MEET. Puerto Vallarta International Convention Center: This complex has a total area of 76,757 ft² (7,131 m²), most of which is concentrated in the Vallarta Grand Hall, with 53,819 ft² (5,000 m²) of column-free space divided between eight unique meeting rooms and capacity for 5,500 attendees. The outdoor space totals 290,626 ft² (27,000 m²) divided among three squares; Plaza Mayor is the largest area at 226,042 ft² (21,000 m²).

Sheraton Buganvillas Resort & Convention Center: Recently remodeled, the hotel has a 16,146 ft² (1,500 m²) convention area with capacity for 1,200 people, 15 multipurpose rooms, and an exhibition area with space for up to 30 stands.

■ WHAT TO DO. Puerto Vallarta's "malecón," or boardwalk, is the main attraction for meetings and convention attendees. This pedestrian area is home to an art walk where groups can enjoy sculptures, art galleries, and a variety of artists putting on a live show by the famous boardwalk arches. Admiring the sunset from this point is a must, and there are several restaurants offering terraces with incredible views. Attendees can continue walking south to reach Old Vallarta and its popular Cuale River, where they can buy crafts and souvenirs that celebrate local culture. At nighttime groups can let off some after-hours steam at the local nightclubs and bars —most of which are concentrated along the "malecón" or a few blocks away— and are open and available until dawn.

One of the newest attractions with great potential for groups and incentives is the Vallarta Botanical Garden. This immense space full of beautiful flowers and plants offers its visitors the chance for tours and events, as well as a culinary adventure, vanilla plantation, greenhouse, hiking trails, and other activities to enjoy before or after meetings.

The famous boat tour Rhythms of the Night - Savia is a great recommendation for groups to enjoy after a long day of meetings. This is a tradition in the destination and includes a performance, dinner on the beach and fun and revelry surrounded by nature. It's also only one of the more than 30 tours offered by Vallarta Adventures, which also offers the The Flight freefall simulator.

El Marigalante pirate ship is another attraction to consider, as it can take groups to visit the beautiful beaches south of the port in the area of Mismaloya. Mahahauitas, for example, is festive day or night. Another novel option is swimming with dolphins in their natural environment, an activity offered by Wildlife Connections, where event attendees can join families of dolphins that inhabit the bay. The El Jorullo Bridge, thought to be the longest suspension bridge in the world —1,540 ft (470 m) in length and 492 ft (150 m) high— is offered by Canopy River and is sure to boost the adrenaline of any adventurous attendee.

Puerto Vallarta has much more for incentive groups to do at sea, such as whale watching, sport fishing, snorkeling, scuba diving, and kayak rides. They can also traverse mountain paths on roaring motorized vehicles or enjoy a hike along beautiful trails with stunning landscapes on their way to a waterfall or river for a refreshing dip.

STATE OF NAYARIT

► Riviera Nayarit

Riviera Nayarit, “Mexico’s Pacific Treasure,” is made up of more than 20 coastal towns that include from the most traditional—such as San Blas, Sayulita and San Pancho—to the super exclusive and modern luxury developments of Nuevo Vallarta and Punta de Mita. This tourist destination boasts countless awards for its excellent infrastructure and its efforts to conserve the environment. It hosts more than 80 large-scale events annually and has positioned itself as a go-to for organizers of all kinds of events. For many reasons, tourism is a main driving force in the coastal part of the state of Nayarit. And, if you’re talking incentive activities, there are endless options to enjoy its natural bounty.

■ WHERE TO STAY. Nuevo Vallarta and Flamingos are home to the greatest number of hotels in the region as well as some of the most luxurious, although Punta de Mita has some posh examples that rival these locations. Of note is the fact that Riviera Nayarit is a Virtuoso Preferred destination.

The St. Regis Punta Mita Resort and Four Seasons Resort Punta Mita are both in Punta Mita, two iconic 5-diamond hotels with meeting rooms no larger than 4,305 ft² (400 m²) but with the utmost in exclusivity and luxury.

The Grand Velas Riviera Nayarit is in Nuevo Vallarta: this 5-diamond resort has meetings space that, while not immense, is the most modern and luxurious in the destination. It has three meeting rooms, with Grand Marissa the largest at 6,619 ft² (615 m²) and a capacity for up to 600 people. Nuevo Vallarta is also home to Marival Residences and Marival Resort, with 4 diamonds and 5 stars, respectively, which share the Gran Marival lounge and can receive up to 950 guests in its 7,750 ft² (720 m²) of flexible space.

One of the first hotels built in the destination was the 5-star, all-inclusive Paradise Village Resort & Spa, which has one of the largest ballrooms in the destination with 11,560 ft² (1,074m²) to accommodate up to 1,100 people in theater style, 600 in banquet, and 800 in classroom style. It has a beautiful amphitheater facing the sea and another meeting room with 2,906 ft² (270 m²) and a maximum capacity for 150 people, ideal for smaller events.

■ WHERE TO MEET. Grand Vidanta Convention Center: This is one of the largest meeting venues in the Mexican Pacific, with 32,378 ft² (3,002 m²) divisible into four meeting rooms able to receive up to 2,400 people, complemented by a foyer with 13,993 ft² (1,300 m²) of space. Its cutting-edge technology and spacious facilities, unparalleled in the destination, have attracted events such as the 2018 World Meetings Forum. The tourist complex at Vidanta Nuevo Vallarta has a pair of smaller-scale meeting rooms, five luxury hotels and two professional golf courses.

Sanctuary Convention Center: Whether for conferences, banquets or concerts, the style of the Hard Rock Hotel Vallarta is a great addition to the center’s 12,900 ft² (1,200 m²) of flexible space. The center is available for up to 1,500 guests and offers a unique experience that includes checking out the musical instruments and art of the music industry’s best and brightest.

Krystal Grand Convention Center Nuevo Vallarta: The newest convention center in the destination offers planners the Flamingos Grand Ballroom with 15,069 ft² (1,400 m²) of multifunctional space, cutting-edge technology, and highly qualified personnel able to tend to 1,500 attendees.

The Marina Riviera Nayarit located in La Cruz de Huanacastle, is an alternative site with a spectacular view of the Bay of Banderas. Besides offering top-of-the-line nautical services, an enormous space, and flexible outdoor facilities, the marina

■ WHAT TO DO. The famous photo of Hidden Beach in the Marietas Islands has traveled around the world and turned the national park into the top natural attraction in this destination. Practically every micro-destination has a tour operator that can take groups to this natural wonder to spot endemic species such as the blue-footed booby.

The Riviera Nayarit is a golf destination thanks to its seven professional 18-hole courses, which are located in Nuevo Vallarta, Flamingos, Punta de Mita, and Litibú. Luckily, there is no bad time to sneak in a few practice shots in these courses, created by the best designers in the world.

Each town has a particular offer, so event and incentive planners will surely find something different for their groups. In Bucerías, for instance, handicrafts shopping happens along the Callejón del Beso —Alley of the Kiss— and visitors can partake of the largest oysters in the region, while La Cruz de Huanacaxtle is home to the impressive Marina Riviera Nayarit, the first Blue Flag-certified marina in Mexico and home base for sailing tours of the beautiful Bay of Banderas. Sayulita is perfect for a surf lesson during the day and fun well into the night. San Pancho is all about culture when groups come to tour the town and visit the Entre Amigos cultural center, where they can take in the local efforts on issues such as community development, environmental protection, and artistic development. And in the historic port of San Blas, attendees can savor the most traditional cuisine of Nayarit —dinners can be set up in Chef Betty Vázquez's restaurant El Delfín (the Riviera Nayarit's Culinary Ambassador)— or they can take a boat ride through La Tobará to the crocodile preserve.

The sea and mountains offer a variety of activities for adventure lovers and are perfect for incentives: for example, the ruggedness of the Nayarit coastline allows visitors to see species such as sea turtles, humpback whales, endemic birds, and much more.

STATE OF SINALOA

► Mazatlán

Mazatlán is known nationwide for its agriculture, which is on par with other local industries such as livestock, trade, and fishing —especially shrimp, sail, dorado, marlin, and tuna (the city has the largest tuna processing facility in the continent). These attributes make this port a fantastic option for business meetings related to any of these sectors. But it also has enticing leisure offer: Mazatlán is home to an exciting annual carnival, much architectural wealth, and natural attractions, all of which make "The Pearl of the Pacific" a great option for event organizers and incentive planners.

■ WHERE TO STAY. Mazatlán's Golden Zone is the port city's main hotel sector, with an enticing location near the historic center and home to the greatest number of rooms in the city. There is a wide range of internationally-recognized hotel chains, including El Cid Resorts, which has four hotels in the area: El Cid Castilla, El Cid El Moro, El Cid Granada, and El Cid Marina, all with meeting rooms for events, business centers, and other facilities such as a golf course, a marina and a DMC office.

Event organizers can also find high-end properties in Nuevo Mazatlán, most of them under the all-inclusive format. Just north of the area is the Gran Turismo-category, AAA Four-Diamond Hotel Pueblo Bonito Emerald Bay Resort & Spa, one of the most awarded resorts in the region. This exclusive property offers 21,527 ft² (2,000 m²) between lounges, terraces, esplanades, gardens and the beach. Its largest space is Claussen Hall, capable of receiving up to 370 guests in a cocktail-style setting, while the terrace of La Cordeliere restaurant can accommodate 300 attendees in a banquet-style setting. The hotel's Spa Armonia is one of its most enticing assets.

Meanwhile, the master-planned Playa Espíritu development is already underway, with the firm intention of hosting 100 hotels and 44,000 rooms on a 7.5-mile (12-km) stretch of coastline.

■ WHERE TO MEET. Mazatlán International Center: Modern, with an avant-garde design and state-of-the-art technology, versatile, and functional, this huge space ensures the success of each congress, conference, meeting, concert or event. With five meeting rooms, a lobby and terrace on one side of the building, the convention center's ground floors offer 74,007 ft² (6,882m²) of available space; on the upper floor, the Mazatlán Grand Ballroom can be divided into six meeting rooms of different sizes, to which four small adjoining rooms and a vestibule can be added to include another 67,306 ft² (6,253 m²) of column-free space. Its mezzanine has four halls and two vestibules that add another 36,209 ft² (3,364 m²) of space, plus two restaurants and a business center.

■ WHAT TO DO. Meetings and incentives planners will find that in order to truly experience the city the group needs walk its historic center and take in its architectural wealth. The city's cathedral, Angela Peralta Theater, Museum of Archeology, and Plaza Machado should be appreciated at length. Beautiful panoramic views of the sea and the work of talented artists are a sight to behold along the 13 miles (21 km) of the Mazatlán boardwalk, or "malecón." The busiest segment is at Playa Olas Altas, where groups can enjoy statues and historical sights. Nearby, the towns of Cosalá and Copala retain great cultural and historical wealth worth seeing —Pronatours offers specialized tours for groups to these and many other destinations in the area.

The Mazatlán Aquarium is worth a visit for its great variety of fish, sharks, turtles, jellyfish, and other species. The Lighthouse, which is almost 500 feet high (152 m) at Cerro del Crestón, is the highest still-active lighthouse in the world. Event and incentive trip attendees can see humpback whales (during season) and enjoy sport fishing, and there are impressive islands with beautiful beaches such as Isla de Venados and Isla de la Piedra, where groups can enjoy local restaurants and activities such as horseback riding. If your event is held at the end of February and the beginning of March, the Mazatlán Carnival will allow attendees to experience the most Sinaloan of festivities.

Mexico, due in part to its presence in films in the 1950s and 60s during the golden age of Mexican cinema. It played such an important role, in fact, that this port city is where Tianguis Turístico, Mexico's most important tourism event, was born in 1975. This is also the reason why meeting planners will find it has a first-class infrastructure. Fishing and agriculture also greatly contribute to its economy.

■ WHERE TO STAY. Acapulco has a great variety of hotels, from small elegant villas on cliffs for private meetings to famous, all-inclusive hotel brands offering the highest category of service and quality.

Mexico's longest macro tunnel, almost two miles (3.2 km) long, is already in service and connects the Golden Zone with the Diamond Zone in less than five minutes, facilitating the connection between the two hotel areas that house the best and most resorts of the destination.

Event organizers who wish to host their groups where all services are at their fingertips will no doubt head to the Mundo Imperial complex in exclusive Punta Diamante. The complex was created holistically, taking into consideration all conceivable needs.

The Acapulco Real Zona Diamante, awarded with the AAA Four Diamonds, is a luxurious resort in the Diamond Zone in Puerto de Marqués Bay, with four meeting rooms that can receive up to 220 guests depending on the format.

With a privileged location in Acapulco Bay's Golden Zone, the Grand Hotel Acapulco & Convention Center features 14 meeting rooms that add more than 36,579 ft² (3,400 m²) of space, with El Cabaret offering the most space: 7,717 ft² (717 m²) that can welcome up to 900 people. AMResorts has made an agreement with this establishment to lease, remodel, and operate it under the Dreams concept, which means a world-class spa, gourmet dinners, unlimited premium drinks and luxury facilities.

■ WHERE TO MEET. Acapulco International Center: This is one of the largest and most well-equipped convention centers in Mexico and indeed Latin America, with roughly 813,751 ft² (75,600 m²) of indoor and outdoor space in 30 meeting spaces composed of halls, theaters, terraces, gardens, a square, a gallery and a business center. Teotihuacán Hall is its largest indoor space, with 70,557 ft² (6,555 m²) and capacity for 6,000 people. Outside, its gardens to the south and west feature 282,186 ft² (26,216 m²) and 166,710 ft² (15,488 m²) respectively, open to up to 10,000 and 5,218 guests.

Expo Mundo Imperial: As part of the Resort Mundo Imperial Acapulco facilities in the Zona Diamante, this convention center has 242,000 ft² (22,500 m²) of column-free area for exhibitions and 112,332 ft² (10,436 m²) of meeting and convention space, as well as 50 halls and a forum for up to 4,000 people. Its services include a restaurant, medical services, parking, a business center, audiovisual services to exhibitors, and recommendations from trusted suppliers.

Princess Mundo Imperial: This luxuriously remodeled hotel has 125,797 ft² (11,687 m²) of space in meeting rooms with state-of-the-art multimedia services for a total of four exhibition centers, a lobby, an amphitheater, four meeting rooms and outdoor space.

■ WHAT TO DO. La Quebrada cliff divers are a symbol of Acapulco and an unparalleled and truly Mexican performance. For more than 80 years, brave souls have performed deep dives at different times and heights—at noon, at dusk, and, most impressively, at night. At 9:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m., divers jump from more than 80 feet (25 m) high into the sea below with a lit torch for a truly spectacular show. Groups can also enjoy this feat from an area restaurant with enviable views, enjoying a delicious dinner of Acapulco's traditional cuisine.

XTASEA Zip Line, one of the newest attractions of the port, is the longest over-the-sea zip line in the world, with 5,905 feet (1,800 m) in length and able to reach a speed of 74 mph (120 km/h) at 328 feet (100 m) in height. It's a true challenge for adrenaline fans. The highest climbing wall in the world is being built in the same location, plus other surprises for corporate activities and team programs.

Event attendees and incentive groups can enjoy a large number of activities throughout the port, including sport fishing, jet skiing, water skiing, paragliding, diving, and sailing sports such as windsurfing. Year after year, the Mexican Tennis Open is held in Acapulco at the end of February, a meeting of the best in the sport.

► Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo

Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo is a dual destination made up of two separate towns. Its main activities are agriculture, fishing, and increasingly strong tourism thanks to its natural riches, historic buildings with varied architecture, and delicious gastronomy.

■ WHERE TO STAY. While Zihuatanejo developed organically with small, personalized hotels, Ixtapa was conceived more as a tourist resort, so it's home to mostly high-end, all-inclusive hotels, as well as the destination's two golf courses.

Hotel Fontán Ixtapa on Playa El Palmar just remodeled its meeting rooms, which can fit up to 1,000 people. Hotel Las Brisas Ixtapa offers its Vistahermosa Hall of 10,075 ft² (936m²) and is able to welcome 1,100 guests, auditorium-style. Its Solarium and Los Espejos courtyards are also available for banquets for 400 and 750 people, respectively.

UMA Zihua, a huge project by the airport with a convention center, golf course, residences and more, is about to be announced, coming off the heels of Punta Garrobo, a roughly $300 million investment in an 198-acre (80-hectare) project.

■ WHERE TO MEET. Azul Ixtapa Convention Center: Hotel Azul Ixtapa has the largest convention center in the destination, with 21,527 ft² (2,000 m²) of multifunctional space with all the services and capacity to welcome up to 2,400 guests.

■ WHAT TO DO. The destination's restaurants — ideal for dine-arounds— showcase the area's cuisine, with fresh fish and seafood and traditional fare such as the "tiritas de pescado" (fish strips cooked in lime juice), "aporreadillo" (a dried beef and scrambled egg dish) and "pescado a la talla" (grilled fish), among others.

The Mexican Pacific is a paradise for sport fishing, of course, and this destination has been internationally certified for the sport. Sunny Side is a trusted local DMC that can take groups on an outing. They depart from Las Gatas beach to snorkel and search for the Cristo Rey, a 13-foot-high (4 m) bronze sculpture in the depths of the sea. The DMC also offers cultural tours to the archaeological site of Soledad de Maciel, also known as the Xihuacan Museum.
